Bari, a typical maritime and market city, is the capital of the Apulia region and the second biggest city in the south of Italy. The city developed industrially in the second half of the twentieth century and now boasts an important trade fair, the largest in the south. Tourists visit Bari for its historic buildings, artwork and fascinating town centre, as well as for the beaches which surround the area.

THE CITY

Rudy Balasko / Shutterstock.com

The people of Bari love to repeat this phrase: "If Paris was on the sea, it would look like a small Bari". Obviously, this is an exaggeration, but it tells us a lot about the pride (and sense of humour) in this area. This is a city with a deep sense of history and art, with rich cultural roots and a modern business outlook.

Bari was an important city under the Greeks, became a Roman municipality, and was later governed by the Saracens, the Venetians, the Normans, the Aragons and finally the Bourbons before finally becoming a part of Italy. As a link between the Greek and Middle-Eastern worlds, Bari experienced its Golden Age during the medieval period. The glories of that age are perfectly symbolised by the stupendous Cathedral and Church of San Nicola.

The Emperor Augustus Promenade - the main thoroughfare in the city - is also worthy of note, as is the Nazario Sauro Promenade, which provides a magnificent walkway along the sea front, as well as superb views over the city itself. To the left, is the S. Nicola jetty where every year, on the 8th of May, the ceremony of the thaumaturgy statue takes place. The statue is taken to sea on a boat where it is worshipped by pilgrims and believers. In this area, you can sample the marvellous seafood in the working class bay area known as the "nderre a la lanze".

DO & SEE

Bari, a busy port city on the Adriatic coast might not quite yet be able to compete with Italy's other tourist magnets, but it's not likely to stay this way for long: the charming port town does not lack in history or culture. Bari has many stunning sites to offer, such as the Cattedrale Di San Sabino, known as one of the most important attractions in town, and the Castel Del Monte, a unique medieval manor house, 70 kilometres from the centre of Bari.

Additionally, be sure to enjoy a walk in the beautiful Orto Botanico or discover the Grotte Di Castellana -- the famous caves of Castellana -- and visit the old town to capture some photos of the medieval buildings, take a nice stroll by the harbour, enjoy the beautiful sea view and watch fishermen at work. All the tourist highlights can easily be visited on foot.

La Città Vecchia (The Old City)

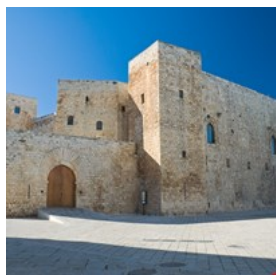

The extraordinary Old City largely consists of narrow and winding streets, making it a charming place to stroll around. You will find all the important medieval monuments, such as the Swabian castle and many churches, including the Cathedral of San Sabino and the Basilica of San Nicola. When the hunger kicks in there are plenty of bars and restaurants to head for where to enjoy some yummy food!

Il Castello Normanno-Svevo (The Norman Swabian Castle)

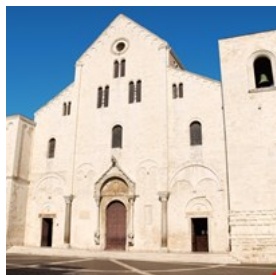

This building was originated by Roger II (1139) and destroyed at least twice by the people of Bari, in protest against the tyranny of the Normans. Finally, Frederick II rebuilt it, almost completely, between 1233 and 1240 and thanks to him, today, we can enjoy a visit to this important piece of history.

DINING

Francesco Carucci / Shutterstock.com

Pugliese cuisine is usually associated with orecchiette (little-ear shaped) pasta accompanied by cime di rapa (turnip-tops), but there is much more to this region than that one dish. The fresh vegetables found here are often prepared with oil and garlic and other specialities include fish, homemade pasta and vegetable and cereal-based soups. Most dishes are served with very good bread or taralli (similar to breadsticks). The burrata (mozzarella cheese with a cream centre) should not be missed. Pugliese cuisine with its delicate flavours is generally considered to be amongst the best in Italy.

Ristorante Ai Due Ghiottoni

You can try a variety of vegetables and fish cooked according to the best local cuisine.

Recommended choices are the “risotto ai due ghiottoni” with spinach, cream, ham and parmesan cheese and oven-cooked salted bass fish. Moreover, there is a good selection of local, national and international wines.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Epsilon_lyrae / Shutterstock.com

Aperitivo venues tend to open late, at around 20:00 / 21:00, because in Bari people usually have dinner around 21:00, and if you arrive earlier you will probably find a lot of empty seats. People generally eat outside because it's almost never cold and they like to chill-out and chat in Piazza del Ferrarese or along the old walls. They also enjoy visiting the small villages by the sea, such as Trani, Polignano a Mare, Molfetta and Bisceglie, for a walk and a drink. In Bari, there are a few dance clubs, but for proper discos, it's worth a trip out to the famous Divinae follie in Bisceglie, 40 km from Bari!

SHOPPING

Kamil Macniak / Shutterstock.com

If you want to find Italian fashion clothing, bags, shoes and accessories, you should visit via Sparano, which is the most important shopping street in Bari. Here you can find all the famous labels such as Pacioti, Coccinelle and Furla, as well as the major chains including Sisley (which is one of the biggest chain stores in the South of Italy) and Zara.

Other fashion shops, with cheaper brands, can be found in Corso Cavour and via Manzoni. The market in via Tommaso Fiore (which is open on Monday mornings) is a great place for second-hand clothes, shoes, textiles and craft items.

If you want to bring home typical food and fresh vegetables, you can visit the markets in Corso Mazzini and in via Nicolai (they are open every day). Furthermore, in the Old City centre there are many pottery and straw basket shops.

Via Sparano

If you want to find Italian fashion clothing, bags, shoes and accessories you should head over to one of the most famous shopping streets in Bari, the via Sparano, also claimed to be the most important shopping street in the city. Stroll along this street and discover some elegant boutiques with well-known brands like Valentino, Gucci, Max Mara and Marina Rinaldi. There are also more affordable shops located here like Zara, Benetton and Maglieria Glenfield.

Bari International Airport

Bari International Airport is located around 10 kilometres from the city centre and it serves several major airlines, low cost companies included.

From the city centre you can reach the airport in several ways, so just choose the one that suits you best:

-With the bus 16 (run by Bari transport company AMTAB) it will take around 45 minutes to city centre, but this is definitely the cheapest option (around 1,50 €), departing every 40/50 minutes.

-Travelling on the shuttle you will save 15 minutes and cost around 4 €.

-Taking the taxi, is the most comfortable option, but also the most expensive (around 25 €). You will find taxis outside the arrivals area. www.baritaxi.it

- Car rental is another option. You will find several car rental companies at the airport like Avis, Budget, Hertz, Europcar, Win Rent and Autoservizi Maggiore.
