gevision/Shutterstock.com

Bonifacio is set in the extreme south of Corsica, only a few kilometres across the water from Italy. This beautiful city is full of secrets and history. The shining sea and the "maquis", as well as the fierce white limestone, create a wildly beautiful natural landscape. The warmth of the climate is also tangible in the warmth of the inhabitants; much like thousands of visitors every year, you will likely be drawn back to Bonifacio.

THE CITY

flrnt/Flickr (image cropped)

Fierce and proud, Bonifacio is perched on a granite cliff hanging over the sea.

Welcoming inhabitants since the prehistoric era, the city has become strategic due to its geographical position on a strait. It was developed by Tuscans to be a citadel and was named after Boniface II of Tuscany in 828. The citadel was held to fight against the Moors of Spain, who were pirates. Fight scene of the Pisan and Genoese armies, Bonifacio was disputed between these two powerful states. It briefly became an Aragonian property but was definitively acquired by Genoa after a series of treasons and sieges. In 1767, the Republic of Genoa sold Corsica to France and asked for special treatments to some cities, including Bonifacio.

Bonifacio has gained international recognition through its protected marine parks, its luxurious nature and its beauty. The folklore and traditions are still very living and maintained.

DO & SEE

Nadia Kompan/Shutterstock.com

An absolute open-air museum, the city is pure amazement. The impressive nature and the rich history gather to make the city a pure gem. You can stroll around the city all day and night long, you will always find something new.

You will also likely find your favourite beach among the 40 kilometres of sandy coastline in and around Bonifacio.

L'Escalier du roi d'Aragon

These King of Aragon's steps are for the ones who are not faint hearted! The vertiginous view over the sea and the city is breathtaking.

Legend says that these steps on the cliff were created in one night only to allow the king of Aragon to escape from the siege of the city.

Be careful, the steps are very steep and you will need courage to climb them!

Mérouville

On the south-east of the Lavezzi Islands lies a well-known diving site in Corsica: Merouville (Grouper-city). You can dive surrounded by friendly groupers. They are not at all shy and some even enjoy being petted by swimmers. These fish are protected by law.

Several companies rent out material and boats and organise tours in Bonifacio.

Address: Iles Lavezzi, Bonifacio

Îles Lavezzi

In waters as clear as the Caribbean ones, in a fish haven lies a small archipelago called îles Lavezzi. All in granite, the austere decor must not make you forget the beauty and the serenity of the place.

The inhabited islands were the place of the wreck of the Semillante, a French frigate, in 1855.

Be sure to bring water, food and parasols as there are no shops.

You can access the islands by renting a boat or take a shuttle boat.

Boat Tours

A boat tour is a must for discovering all the hidden places of Bonifacio. All the tours are conducted in several languages. It may be a good idea to access professional services as the waters of Bonifacio are dangerous with their reefs.

4 companies are on the same dock and offers several routes: the discovery of the sea bottom, the discovery of Bonifacio caves, cliffs and coves and the discovery of the islands.

Plage du Petit Spérone

Ranked by Le Figaro as one of the most beautiful beaches of France, La Plage du Petit Spérone draws its name from the gulf of Spérone. After 10 minutes of walking from the beach of Piantarella, you will feel on the other side of the world. The pure waters and fine golden sand will sweep you away to the tropical islands.

This beach is also good to know for one reason: even during the busiest months, it is almost never crowded.

Roman Ruins of Piantarella

Next to the Piantarella beach, you can find ruins of a roman complex. This huge villa holds stables, therms, offices, workshops, salt warehouses, a private port, apartments and even a dry dock to repair boats. The total surface was 3 600 square meters.

Nowadays, only the ruins remain which give a charm to the beautiful landscape. The land they are located in is privately-owned but you can perfectly see them from the outside.

Passport/Visa

France can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of most European countries, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Best Time to Visit

From June to the end of August it is the best time to go to Corsica if your desire is to lie comfortably on one of the many beautiful beaches. Temperatures are typically Mediterranean, this means generally mild and very temperate: the record temperature during this period is 32°C.

The lucky ones who can enjoy a holiday in the spring and autumn will find a pleasant climate, high temperatures, fewer tourists and much lower prices than during the high season. This season is recommended for lovers of hiking, diving, nature walks and sports in general.
