Las Vegas is a dazzling sea of neon lights that beckons visitors with luxurious accommodation, unbelievable shows, exquisite restaurants, world-class gambling, and decadence on a grandiose scale: it is ancient Rome, romantic Paris, exotic Egypt, exciting New York City, and the Canals of Venice all together rolled into a single vacation destination. Millions of people fulfil their dream of visiting Las Vegas every year, and as to its manifold shape, it is not difficult to see why it has earned the title of the world's Entertainment Capital.

THE CITY

egd/Shutterstock.com

Shortly after gambling was legalized in Nevada in 1931, construction of the first hotel/casinos began but who could have known that it was the beginning of the phenomenon known simply as Vegas: a glamorous, fantasy oasis in the middle of the desert.

Although the city's image seems to be dominated by casinos, there is much more to Las Vegas than 'just' gambling, eating, and shopping - it is a vibrant, fast growing city that attracts some of the largest conventions and business meetings in the world. Each year, over 50,000 people relocate permanently to this city, thanks to the abundance of jobs, low taxes, healthy climate and beautiful surroundings, and with 320 days of sunshine annually, Las Vegas can also boast some of the country's best golfing facilities. Las Vegas is a growing city that gets bigger every year, with more spectacular hotels and casinos being designed and built in order to amaze and entertain people from all over the world.

Beyond the famous five-mile Las Vegas Strip, there is also the historically exciting Fremont Street, the home of the original casinos that started this very Vegas craze back in the 1930s. Millions of tourists come to see the Fremont Experience every year, where an incredible and breathtaking light and sound show presented on a domed structure covers several blocks in the downtown area.

DO & SEE

stux/Pixabay

It is impossible to see and do everything that Las Vegas has to offer during only one trip, and this is what keeps visitors returning over and over again - the choices can be overwhelming. Good planning is the key to any great vacation but especially for Las Vegas, it is highly recommended to set up a bucket-list.

Grand Canyon National Park

Pretty much everyone has heard of the Grand Canyon, and the stunning landscape with its impressive size should not be missed if you are anywhere close by. The national park consists of 277 miles (446 km) of the Colorado River and the erosion's effects on the surrounding landscape. The Grand Canyon itself is 18 miles (29 km) wide, and a mile (1,6 km) deep. It is possible to hike 9 miles (14,5 km) down the Bright Angel Trail to the very bottom, and this quite tough walk is most certainly worth it!

More Info: The Grand Canyon lies 250 miles (400km) from Las Vegas but there are several companies that offer trips of all kinds. When going there by car, you take highway 93 south to Interstate 40 east to highway 64 - count on approximately 4.5 hours for getting there.

The Mob Museum

Do you know what happened with the familiar phrase 'what happens in Vegas, stays in Vegas'? Follow the real life stories of criminal characters that are only familiar to you from TV dramas, as you walk through this one-of-a-kind Mob Museum, as you can here discover the story from the birth of the Mob to the activities of them today. The museum features real stories of both sides, from the Mob and the justice system, so that you will learn about how Las Vegas came to be, and about the hidden stories that have unfolded in its busy streets.

High Roller

The High Roller is the largest and tallest observation wheel in the world, as its 167m (550ft) beat both the London Eye and the Singapore Flyer when it comes to height. For one of the best views combined with a fun experience, take a half hour ride and discover the city from a whole new angle, with 360-degree views and stares in awe. While an informative video will explain interesting and surprising facts about Las Vegas, the sunset can here be enjoyed best.

Stratosphere Tower

This sight at Stratosphere Hotel is the tallest freestanding observation tower in the United States, and - with one of the best panorama view of the strip - a perfect spot for having a drink.

The tower will give you a glimpse of the shimmering Las Vegas Strip and the grand casino's, and if you are feeling adventurous and brave, then do take the 829-foot Sky-jump, or the free fall drop tower. Be aware, however, that this activity is only meant for daredevils!

The Strip

The Strip is probably the world's best-known boulevard stretch, so do prepare for an intense few hours among casinos, restaurants, stores, top-notch hotels and many other establishments.

One of the most popular activities is taking pictures with people dressed up as the famous, and one of the choices are Marilyn Monroe, Elvis and even Alan from the movie 'The Hangover'. When having been here during the day, come back at night to rediscover, and for getting dizzy and amazed in the area of glimmering light.

Eiffel Tower Experience

There is no need to leave the US soil for having a romantic meal on the Eiffel Tower, as you only have to visit this Las Vegas landmark for dining with a 460-foot-high and 360-degree city view over the breathtaking Bellagio fountains. Rise above the crowded Las Vegas Boulevard in Paris Las Vegas, and enjoy some fine-dining whilst looking at one of the most beautiful views of Las Vegas. Do not forget to immortalize this moment by taking a professional picture in "France in Vegas".

Gambling

There is no doubt about gambling being Las Vegas' main attraction, and there is a level for every visitor: experienced and first-timer, as most casinos offer free lessons that usually take place in the morning hours on table games such as Blackjack, Craps, and Roulette. The new penny slots are probably the most popular among the recreational gambler as to the bonus games within the games themselves. While the jackpots are, of course, not nearly as large as dollar slots, these games are fun and entertaining anyways, and you can still win some money.

More Info: The age limit of 21 years is for all gambling strictly enforced.

Hoover Dam

Hoover Dam is a national historic landmark and the highest concrete dam in the Western Hemisphere, as it is more than 725 feet (220 m) above the Colorado River. Once known as Boulder Dam, this concrete arch-gravity dam on the border between Arizona and Nevada has 17 generators that produce 4 billion kilowatts of electricity a year, which makes it one of the country's largest hydroelectric power facilities. Named after President Herbert Hoover, and dedicated by President Franklin Roosevelt, the Hoover Dam is visited by nearly one million people each year.

Fremont Street Experience

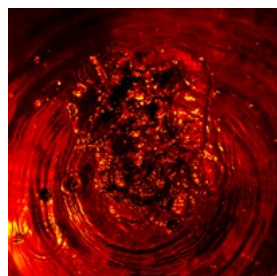

The Fremont Street Experience is a highly successful attempt to draw the millions of visitors back to the downtown area. The domed-canopy 90 feet (27,5 meters) above the street was constructed along five city blocks, lined with some of the oldest casinos in Las Vegas. Every evening from sundown to midnight, the canopy becomes a giant screen showing high resolution images accompanied by concert-quality sound. At the top of each hour, visitors pour into the streets, looking skyward in anticipation of one of the six different shows lasting six to nine minutes.

Outside Las Vegas

There are over 100 different tours offered by a variety of companies in Las Vegas, including sightseeing to the Hoover Dam, Grand Canyon, Lake Mead, the Colorado River, Red Rock, the Valley of Fire and Mount Charleston. The tours last from 2 to 10 hours, and they can be taken by van, bus, airplane, boat or helicopter.

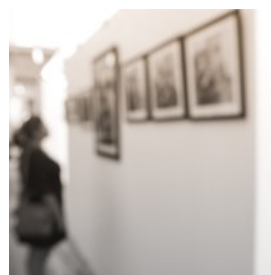

One of the most exciting tours is the Grand Canyon Sunset Tour: leave by helicopter, make a low-level flight over the Hoover Dam and Lake Mead, and land at the Grand Canyon for a Champagne picnic at sunset before returning to the lights of the Las Vegas Strip.

If you have a car, it is an easy drive from the Las Vegas Strip to the Hoover Dam and Lake Mead (51 km/31 miles), Mount Charleston (64 km/40 miles), Red Rock Canyon National Conservation Area (24 km/15 miles) and the Valley of Fire (85 km/53 miles).

DINING

Next to gambling, the most engaging activity in Las Vegas is dining one's heart out, and nearly every type and style of food known to man can be found: from European over Asian to North and South American flavours, and five-star restaurants to take-outs. As there is definitely no shortage of dining experiences, do prepare to be amazed by the variety of restaurants in Las Vegas!

For those with an especially strong appetite, it might be worth to consider getting an all-day or 24-hour buffet pass, which grants one unlimited access to multiple buffets belonging to Caesar's Entertainment Group. Doing this on a weekday can be very good value. Mind that certain section of the higher-end buffets may require a surcharge, and always double-check on whether there are any limitations on your particular pass.

Delmonico Steakhouse

Delmonico is an all-American Steakhouse with a Creole influence, the New Orleans Style. The upscale restaurants already impresses with an impeccable service, an impressive presentation, and an elegant surrounding but the menu features most tasty dishes with beef, chicken,

CAFES

Rawpixel.com/Shutterstock.com

Clear your head, and start your day with a cup of coffee or espresso at one of Las Vegas' many cafes: whether you want to be in France, Italy, or just right there in the country of the US and A, you have way too many choices than you will ever need. Many of the cafes are located in casinos, so do also take a a risk with the slot machines before spending your (won) money on your favourite drink (or treat), for having a great Las Vegas time!

Sunrise Coffee Co.

Sunrise Coffee Co. is a popular independent cafe with great reviews, friendly staff and Wi-Fi. It serves roasted organic coffee, organic teas as well as tasty vegan and vegetarian food, as "all organic, all good" is their highest device. On top, they do not only focus on the traditional coffees, as their menu features flavours like Nutella Latte, and - for the Harry Potter fans - a Butterbeer Latte, while gluten free options are also available.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Cristi Lucaci/Shutterstock.com

Vegas is literally 'the city that never sleeps', and the Las Vegas Strip is a continuous streak of bars, and it is not unusual to see people carrying an alcoholic beverage. Every hotel and casino offers superb entertainment, floor shows, bars and nightclubs, while live entertainment happens indeed everywhere.

Cleopatra's Barge

This place literally rocks: the setting is an ornate replica of a Roman barge on the Nile, that gently rocks in a shallow pool, while its floating lounge, in the main casino at Caesar's Palace, features both DJ and live music. There is no cover charge but only a two-drink minimum, so this is definitely a venue for a good night out!

McCarran International Airport

Over 100,000 people pass through the McCarran International Airport every day. While numerous Airport Shuttles are available 24 hours a day, taxis also provide their services round the clock, and it takes about 15 minutes to get from the airport to any Strip hotel.

Passport / Visa

Citizens of the Schengen countries, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Singapore, Japan, South Korea,

Taiwan and the Kingdom of Brunei can visit the United States for up to 90 days without applying for a visa (as well as citizens of Andorra, Liechtenstein, Monaco and San Marino). Citizens of these countries must obtain an ESTA (Electronic System for Travel Authorization) before traveling. All other travelers must obtain a visa before visiting the United States.

International travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the country.

Best Time to Visit

Las Vegas is not only known for its casinos and its entertainment but also as to its extremely hot weather. The best time to visit the city is in autumn, from September to November, and in spring, from March to May, when the temperatures are around 20-25 degrees. During the winter time, the amount of tourists is great, especially during the holidays, so do try to plan a mid-week trip, as both the plane tickets and hotel prices are significantly lower in comparison to the weekend.

Taxi

Taxis are one of the most used means of transportation in Las Vegas, and every hotel and casino has a taxi stand at the front door.

Keep in mind that there is a small charge for the amount of time that the taxi has to wait for its passengers.

One of the many taxi companies is Frias Transportation Management, which owns five taxicab companies: ACE, A NLV, UNION, Vegas Western, Virgin Valley besides Las Vegas Limousines and Airline Shuttle.

Public Transport

Sidewalks are always packed, during both day and night but the well-lit streets and elevated crossovers make it safe and easy to traverse the busy Las Vegas Boulevard. The Strip is divided into three sections, and if you want to visit another casino in the same area, walking is certainly the best option. If you wish to navigate from the South Strip to the North Strip, however, you will need to take a taxi, private car or bus.

RTC Buses is run by the Regional Transportation Commission of Southern Nevada (RTC). The Bonneville Transit Center is the transfer point for many routes; while most routes cost around $2 or $1, you can also buy a 24-hours pass for $8.

Launched July 2004, the Monorail has stations at Sahara's, Las Vegas Hilton, Harrah's/Imperial Palace, Bally's, Paris and the MGM Grand. The first station of the Monorail is the SLS station, where also tickets can be purchased.

Post Office

There are two full-service post offices on the Strip, one at 3100 Industrial behind Circus-Circus and one at the Forum Shops at Caesar's Palace. The lobby hours are 24/7.

Pharmacy

Chain pharmacies - CVS Pharmacy, Rite Aid Pharmacy, Walgreens etc. - as well as smaller neighborhood stores operate in whole Las Vegas, and while working hours may greatly vary, a few are open 24/7. Pharmacy signs are often in red and white, and they are often located inside department stores. Most of the pharmacies sell both prescription as well as over the counter medicine.

What to pack

Except for a special evening of dining and dancing, visitors to Las Vegas dress very casually. Be sure to bring comfortable shoes and swimsuits, and also carry proper identification with you, especially when gambling. Ladies, however, should not carry a large purse, as it will only get in the way when being gambling.

Player's Cards

Every casino will offer a Player's Card, that can be purchased free of charge after a short application of about 5 minutes, but you will need a drivers' license or another form of identification.

Every time you play a slot machine, do insert the card into the appropriate slot so that it will track the amount of play: the longer you play, the more credits you will receive. You can also get credit on your card for table games, so do simply hand the card to the dealers, and they will add credits depending on the amount of your play.

The credits accumulate, and they can be used for small gifts, free meals and even free nights at a hotel - even penny slots gather quite a few credits. Some cards cover multiple casinos, and you can use it at any venue listed on the card. Do not worry about losing your card, as all the information are transferred to computers, and the staff will gladly issue you a new card at no charge.

Buying half-price show tickets

Tix4tonight sells same-day show tickets for half price, and one of its largest establishments is located at the giant Coca Cola Bottle on the Las Vegas Strip, next to MGM Grand. The shops accept both credit cards and cash, and all purchases must be made in person, as phone orders are not accepted. The chances of finding headlining performers, such as Bette Midler or Elton John, are not very good, but there are many terrific shows that may be available, such as Cirque du Soleil and the Blue Man Group.
